thank you for today

for the cooperation, for the results of brainwork and of 40 years experience in endocrinology

Perhaps there is no new discovery today, perhaps we have only moved a fraction of an inch nearer the goal. The results from today may mean changes tomorrow.

There are days in which we only learn how to proceed. There are others too: days on which we are setting milestones in the development of therapeutics, thankful days, showing the tangible results of cooperation between chemical, biological, pharmaceutical and medical men - days on which we can present the world with a new preparation worthy to bear the name of quality, the name of Organon
